VIEWS OF THE NEWS

LEONARD F. JAMES

It has been argued that the United States must bury its "pride" in negotiations with Russia. Of course, it must be admitted that pride can endanger the relationship between nations, but the "pride" theory can lose sight of hard facts. If face-saving were the sole issue in the Berlin situation, diplomats who know their trade could certainly devise an out. If they can't, they aren't worth their pay. But to assume that the United States and Russia are merely being stubborn is to assume that Berlin is a city isolated from Europe and its international politics.

Can Berlin Be Supplied?

Russia could take over effective control of Berlin without going to war, although the actual troops of the Western powers could not be forced out of the city without resort to force. The Americans know that they cannot adequately supply Berlin indefinitely. The air shuttle can offer food and medical supplies for some weeks to come, at a cost to the United States taxpayer. But its ability to meet Berlin's real needs indefinitely are questionable. Some 2,500 tons of supplies are now being carried daily by American and British planes; the aim is to raise the minimum to 4,500 tons daily. But Berlin's needs for food, fuel, and raw materials are 6,000 tons daily. And certain very practical obstacles confront the United States. The cost now to the United States is $25,000 daily for the operation. But since American policy at present favors the policy, presumably the cost is acceptable.

Base Sewer Rate On Cost of Work

Abutters on Burnham road are to be assessed approximately $4 per foot for the new sewer now being installed there.

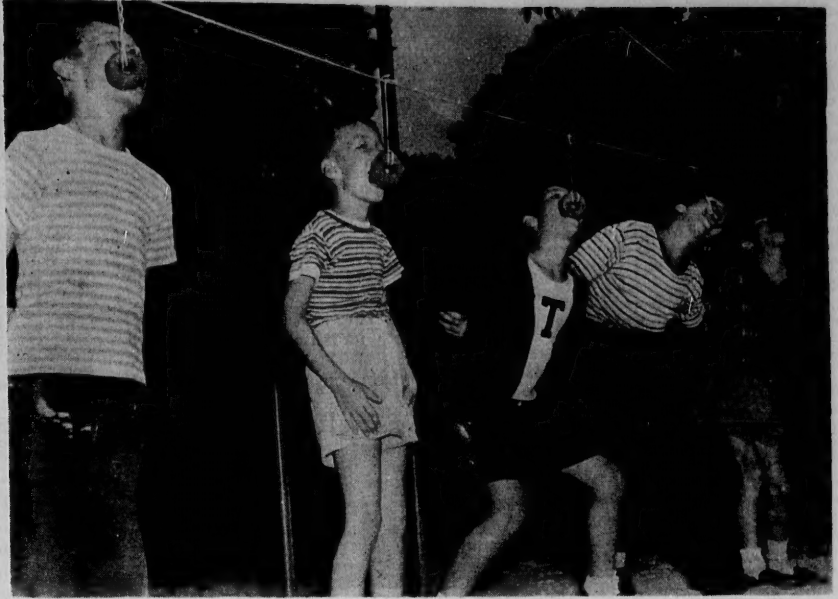

This announcement, made last week, follows the vote taken by the Board of Public Works last November to assess abutters "100 per cent" for all new sewer construction. Prior to that action the rate of $1.10 per foot had been in effect for many years, despite the rising costs attendant upon such work.

The rate of $4 per foot for the Burnham road work is based upon the sum of $27,665 approved by the Town Meeting vote last March, and includes the estimated cost of labor and materials.

In doing this work the contractors, Lewis and Scott, will have to excavate to a depth of 16 feet in some places, instead of the usual six to 10 feet. When the work is finished the street, which is now closed to traffic, will be resurfaced.

The article approved at the last Town Meeting authorized the Board of Public Works to install sewer lines on Burnham road from the corner of High street to Arundel street, a distance of 2535 feet, and also on Dutton road, from the corner of Burnham road a distance of 700 feet, and assess betterments on the estates benefitted by the above extensions.

Award House Lots To Four Veterans

In the presence of 10 applicants, four house lots on the Veterans' plot at the junction of Burnham road and High street were drawn Monday night at the office of Francis P. Markey, Veterans' Service Officer.

The drawings were as follows: Robert C. Connolly of Cuba street, lot 10 on High street; Gerald D. Brent, of 76 Lowell street, lot 4 on Burnham road; James Buss, Jr., of 217 Highland road, lot 11 on High street; and Lynn C. Southwell of 10 Dartmouth road, lot 6 on Burnham road.

The veterans to whom the lots were awarded are expected to start building immediately, which was one of the provisions under which the town made the awards in the endeavor to help provide housing for veterans.

19 More Stopped On New 'Speedway'

The names of 19 more motorists, stopped last weekend for speeding on the newly resurfaced section of North Main street, were sent Monday by Police Chief George A. Dane to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles for suitable action.

Since this section of the roadway was completed a short time ago it has become the town's new "speedway," especially for weekend traffic. Already scores of motorists have been stopped there for speeding and other traffic violations. The previous weekend the names of 25 drivers were taken by police and sent to the registry.

With the opening of Rockingham Park and the great increase it brings in traffic each day, this section of the roadway will be under strict surveillance in order to prevent accidents that arise from fast driving and cutting out of line.

Asks For 68 Volunteers To Register Draftees

Town Clerk George H. Winslow, Chief Registrar For Andover Seeks Part-Time Clerical Help

Young men of Andover subject to draft under the new selective service system will have an opportunity to register right here in town.

Atty. Raphael A. A. Comparone, chairman of Draft Board No. 8 which includes the Greater Lawrence area, has announced the appointment of Town Clerk George H. Winslow chief registrar for Andover.

Local registrations will take place in the Town House and Registrar Winslow is seeking 68 voluntary workers to assist him in the work.

Registration dates are from August 30 through September 18. As planned by the local registrar, four assistants are required for the 17 days, two to work in the mornings and two to work afternoons.

Draft Board No. 8 is making it as easy as possible for those in suburban towns to register by establishing similar registration places in North Andover and Boxford.

It is estimated that 752 young men between the ages of 18 and 25 will be registered in Andover.

Registration will take place according to the year of birth. The registration schedule is as follows: August 30, those born in 1922 after August 30 of that year; August 31 and September 1, those born in

6,952 NAMES ON TOWN'S CHECK LIST

A total of 6957 voters are registered to vote in the state primaries September 14.

This is a net gain of 134 over the 6823 names appearing on the check lists for the town election last March.

The Board of Registrars of Voters has held several sessions since June 3, during which many new names were added to the lists, but with deaths, removals from town and other changes the net gain was but 134.

Every precinct showed a gain except Precinct 5 in Ballardvale where the number of additions were offset by the exact number of names removed.

Sessions of the board were largely attended, 135 persons appearing at the final meeting held Friday, August 13, at the Town House.

Totals of the old and new registrations by precincts and the net gains, are as follows:

Precinct 1	1555	37	1592
Precinct 2	1462	35	1497

POMP'S PREPARING FOR BIG CARNIVAL

A program of interesting events has been arranged for the big water carnival that will close the season at Pomp's pond Saturday, August 21.

Youngsters of all ages are invited to take part in the program and a group from Hussey's pond will be over to compete in some of the numerous races.

There will be boat races as well as swimming events of various kinds. Besides the speed matches there will also be a greased watermelon scramble and a penny scramble for children to help make a good time for all who attend.

This program at Pomp's will start at 2:30. Prizes of jack knives, bathing caps and similar articles will be awarded to the winners.

The supervisors under the direction of Donald D. Dunn, head life guard, have obtained a number of entries and are planning a program which should prove to be interesting and entertaining for entrants and spectators alike.

Several instances of vandalism have been found in the past week in connection with the setting up of posts for the installation of parking meters.

"It is the worst exhibition the meter people have ever encountered," said Police Chief George A. Dane in quoting a representative of the meter company. "In fact it has been so bad that they have hired a special police officer to watch for any further signs of tampering with them."

"Two posts have been lugged off and 30 others loosened after they had been set in cement. In some instances they have had to re-set the posts two and three times. Regardless of the fact that some people do not want them, the law is going to be enforced and arrests will be made if we catch anybody tampering with them."

Workmen for the Mi-Co Meter Company started last week to set out posts for the parking meters. One was missing the next day from its location on Elm street and several others loosened.

On Chestnut street similar instances have been found at locations on Main street.

POLICE PUT BAN ON ANGLE PARKING

Police put a ban on angle parking on Elm street last week when sections of the roadway were painted for parking meters.

"They've had no right to park that way," said Police Chief George A. Dane, "and we are going to see that the law is enforced. We have had many complaints about head-on parking on Elm street and were going to stop it regardless of the new parking meters."

With the Elm street angle parking banned, there will be no such head-on parking allowed in any part of the business section. All parking will have to be parallel with the curb.

Heads for the new parking meters have been shipped from the factory and are due to reach here soon, Chief Dane has been informed.

Meanwhile, white lines to indicate the new parking spaces are being painted on the roadways and drivers are using them now for parking. Each space gives sufficient room for an auto to be parked and to be moved from the curb without touching another car.

Most of these lines will be completed in a few days with the possible exception of one or two

Girl Scouts End Camping Season At Maude Eaton

Camp Maude Eaton, located on Pumps' Pond, completed its six-week season during the past week, when the final group of sixty-six campers returned to their homes. Approximately three hundred seventy girls have enjoyed out-of-door living among the beautiful pines during the sessions, and the weather has been ideal for summer camping.

The campers awakened to reveille at 7:30 a. m., and this was followed by Colors' ceremony at 8 a. m. Each unit in turn took charge of the Color Guards, so that each had an opportunity to become more familiar with regulations governing respect due to the flag, and the proper means of displaying the colors.

After breakfast in the main hall, the girls performed their house or their Unit kapers, and inspection of these charges was under the supervision of Mrs. Cornelius Foley, R.N.

Morning activities included swimming, archery, singing, square dancing, and nature. The morning swim period was devoted to class instruction, and these sessions were conducted by Miss Dorothy L. Abbott of Andover, and Miss Lois Johnson of Sioux City, Iowa.

Charles Barnes of the Lawrence Chapter, American Red Cross visited camp during the season to supervise the Red Cross Swimming activities. Many non-swimmers were able to pass their Beginner's requirements before leaving camp, and others were awarded Intermediate, Swimmers', Junior Life Saving, Senior Life Saving, or Advanced presentations. Girl Scout badge requirements were completed for Swimmers' and Life Saving awards.

Miss Elma Fone of Ballardvale was in charge of the singing program at camp, and one of the highlights of the season was a recording of the campers' voices made by Dr. Lionel St. Louis of Lawrence.

Probably the most enjoyable evening program of the six week period was a kitchen shower tendered Miss Dorothy L. Abbott in honor of her approaching marriage to Willard Patterson. For most of the children it proved a unique experience and they were enthusiastic about every detail, from the decorating of a miniature well that held the gifts, to the writing of verses for each one. Miss Abbott opened her gifts beneath a pink and white shower bell, and these were presented to her by Marguerite Foley, the youngest camper.

The sailing of Friendship boats proved a fitting close for the season. Campers chose their best friend and launched miniature boats bearing lighted candles from the water's edge. As they floated out into the pond the campers sang their friendship song.

Miss Genevieve M. Cahill of Lawrence served as Camp Director and she was assisted by Miss Mary A. Buckley of North Andover. Mrs. Helen Baldwin was camp cook; Mrs. Cornelius Foley, camp nurse; Unit leaders were: Miss Estelle Gibeau of Lawrence, Miss Nancy J. Schmalz of Dedham, and Miss Judith Daniels of Roxbury. Assistant Unit leaders were: Miss Mary P. Hennessey of Lawrence, Miss Shirley Fox of Danvers, and Miss Mary Lou Sullivan of Lawrence.

Miss Dorothy Abbott and Miss Lois Johnson were in charge of the waterfront; Miss Ruth Goodridge of Worcester was in charge of archery; and Miss Elma Fone of Ballardvale headed the singing groups.

During the season campers were present from the Greater Lawrence area, Lynnfield, Manchester, Essex, Salem, Middleton, Lowell, Brighton, Jewett City, Conn., and Cleveland, O.

Campers from Andover were: Maxine Wainwright, Troop 18; Ruth Morgan, Troop 27; Janet Hulse, Patricia Robinson and Edith Bellisle of Troop 23; and Marjorie Davis of Troop 19, Ballardvale.

Year Book Added To Library Collection

THE BRITANNICA BOOK OF THE YEAR, a record of the march of events of 1947 as the title page describes it, has just been received and added to the library's reference collection. This volume is the eleventh in the series, begun in 1938, under the editorial supervision of Walter Yust, editor of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Outstanding among the annual yearbooks, the Britannic Year-Book contains articles on many subjects of current interest, the majority of them signed, many of them briefly treated, although some are longer as for example the article on the United Nations which runs to some eight pages. There are some biographical articles, particularly of people who have made the headlines.

A list of anniversaries and holidays, a day by day calendar of the chief events of 1947 precede the main text.

There are some bibliographies. Among the useful lists included are the following: a selected list of nationally or regionally accredited universities, colleges, junior colleges and technical schools of college grade in the United States and Canada; a list of new words and new meanings; a list of prominent men and women, of the United States and other countries, who died during the year 1947; a list of the members of the 80th Congress, a list of assassinations, actual or attempted.

The volume is well illustrated with photographs, cartoons, diagrams, statistical tables.

VA and Banks Join To Aid Veterans Getting Housing

"Can the VA and the banks satisfy every veteran who is interested in achieving home ownership with the help of the G.I. Home Loan Plan?"

Warner M. Allen, Executive-Secretary of the Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League was a logical authority to whom to put this question. By virtue of his personal experience as a bank treasurer and also the wealth of information and facts channeling through his headquarters, Mr. Allen had certain observations to make in connection with this question.

"To begin with," observed Mr. Allen, "it is only reasonable to believe that there will be some veterans who will not be satisfied with the recommendations and decisions of either the VA or the banks. Some of those veterans will fail to realize that there is almost a partnership relationship between the VA and the banks in their joint efforts to protect a veteran from going 'overboard' in securing living quarters. Both the VA and the banks are well aware that pressure of circumstances can cause a man to do almost anything. It is not lack of sympathetic appreciation that causes them to sometimes deny a loan application... rather is it a sincere effort to protect a veteran against assuming an unwise obligation, no matter how great his need may be. They know that a burdensome financial obligation can be more overpowering and distressing than inadequate living quarters."

"Unfortunately," points out Mr. Allen, "a man who is refused a loan may permit himself to feel that the G.I. Home Loan Plan is no good and he may not hesitate to say so in plenty of words. This is a natural result of disappointment, but in due time that same man will be deeply grateful for the protection afforded him by the VA and the bank."

U.S. Dollars Build Large Air Force

This year the U. S. will spend for development of its air forces $3.2 billion—less than the amount Americans spent last year for movies or tobacco. A breakdown of the combat elements in the new air forces shows what the taxpayer gets for the air forces expenditure.

For their air security dollar Americans will receive (1) ample striking power to discourage would-be war makers; (2) to turn back any possible attack against the U. S.; and (3) an aircraft industry in readiness for rapid expansion and capable of supplying the air forces with continually improved equipment.

New appropriations for our air forces will start us on the way to an Air Force of 12,400 first-line planes, organized into 70 groups and 22 specialized squadrons. They are aimed at providing a Navy air arm of 8,015 first-line planes, divided among 57 Navy and Marine Corps groups. The Navy also will have 56 first-line patrol and carrier support squadrons.

Backing up these basic forces, Congress has approved plans for an Air Force Reserve of 34 groups and an Air National Guard of 27 groups. The Naval Air Reserve will include eight carrier attack groups, seven Marine Support groups, eight carrier support squadrons and 12 patrol squadrons.

To equip these air forces with modern planes and at the same time provide an aircraft industry capable of rapid expansion, Congress has authorized procurement of 4,262 new combat planes in fiscal 1949. Orders already have gone out for 3,365 of these.

Two Local Students To Enter Trinity

HARTFORD, CONN. — Two students from the Andover area have been accepted for admission at Trinity College, it was announced by Dean Arthur H. Hughes.

They are: Romilly H. Humphries, a graduate of Deerfield Academy in June, 1948, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd T. Humphries of 147 Main street; and Lyman R. Emmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Emmons of 8 Stratford road, who is transferring to Trinity from Norwich University in Northfield, Vt.

A New England liberal arts college for men founded in 1823, Trinity opens its 126th academic year September 20th.

ing house with a dozen hardboiled roomers to contend with! And don't think that some haven't considered situations fully as complicated as this example!"

Veterans still have nine years in which to make G.I. Home Loans. Thus, they are not pushed by any time-limit of the law to accomplish a loan in a hurry. If they can wait out the current inflation period, as many are doing, they will still have time to derive the benefits of the G.I. Home Loan Plan.

In conclusion, Mr. Allen pointed out that unless a bank heartily endorses and recommends that a veteran make a proposed purchase, he better leave the proposition alone. A bank, as a specialist in home financing, has plenty of experience with which to back up its judgment and decisions. A veteran should be deeply grateful that there is someone who has enough interest in his affairs to save him from "going off the deep end" financially. A bank, with money to lend, finds neither pleasure nor profit in refusing a loan application.

Milk Rich Source Of Nutriments

Chicago — Encouragement for housewives who are plagued by rising food costs was held out today by the National Dairy Council.

Summerizing bulletins from various branches of the federal government, the Dairy Council gave these two prospects for the rest of 1948:

1. Milk prices will remain steady, although somewhat higher than in 1947.
2. In comparison to the prices for other foods, milk continues to be one of the cheapest nutrient sources for safe and healthful meals.

The Dairy Council quotes the U. S. Department of Agriculture as announcing: "We find that a dollar spent on fresh milk today will buy an average of 3,296 calories, 168 grams of protein, 5,660 milligrams of calcium, 7,606 international units of vitamin A, and 8 milligrams of riboflavin, as well as lesser amounts of other nutrients. The same dollar spent on chicken, round steak, veal cutlets, smoked ham, or loin pork chops will buy considerably less."

"Of course no one food is expected to provide all the nutrients the body requires, but milk comes as close to being a complete food as any, and among the foods commonly consumed it is one of the cheapest nutrient sources."

These forecasts, the Dairy Council states, take into consideration the demands of the European recovery program upon national economy.

BIRTH

Hamilton — A daughter, August 12 at the Lawrence General hospital to Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton (Eleanor Bigelow) of 4 Dutton road.

The Back Yard Gardener Says:

"Live at home and like it" has been our motto most of the summer. These August days it's mighty comforting to stretch out under the apple tree and listen to the ball game.

I get along pretty well except for two things — Mom asks me to move once in a while while she mows the lawn, and the other difficulty comes from ants which seem to think I'm something sweet.

Folks say that if a dog didn't have fleas he wouldn't know he was a dog. Maybe that's why we have ants and other insect pests. Anyway, I know that ants are rather universal and thought that a few suggestions on ways to control them would be in order.

Liberal applications of pyrethrum or rotenone dust applied to the entrance to the tunnel will kill or repel ants. Another method is to drench the ant hills with solutions of pyrethrum or rotenone or nicotine. Simply dilute as you would for spraying.

There are, of course, other materials such as calcium cyanide and carbon disulfide. Here you simply place a teaspoonful in the hill and close the entrance with soil. There's some difficulty in handling these materials in that they form poisonous gas. Furthermore, these substances are apt to injure the roots and plants. Carbon disulfide is also explosive.

On plants, of course, the ants are usually attracted by aphids and other sucking insects which secrete a substance called honeydew. In this instance it's just a case of controlling the aphids by spraying with nicotine or other contact insecticides.

In the house, powders placed where the ants are crawling through them are rather effective. A good substance to use is powdered derris containing 3 to 5 per cent rotenone. This can be used in the house or around the ant tunnels without danger to pets or people. Sodium fluoride may be used, but this is poisonous to humans.

Another material which is used for controlling ants is chlordane. It's sold under various trade names and in different strengths. The best one to use is 50 per cent chlordane wettable powder. For a hill treatment use 1/8 of a teaspoon of this 50 per cent wettable powder in each hill and wash it in with two quarts of water. For a large lawn area, mix one ounce or about five tablespoonfuls in 25 gallons of water and apply over an area of about 250 square feet. Then water with a hose for about five minutes.

Antelopes are native of Asia and Africa.

Recommends D.D.T. For Traffic Safety

The use of D. D. T. to prevent traffic accidents has been urged by the National Safety Council. Only this D.D.T. is not the famous bug killer.

It means Defensive Driving in Traffic, and it's a potent poison for traffic accidents. It's the smart way to drive, long practiced by the best professional truck and bus drivers but not common enough among average motorists.

To give more drivers an understanding of the defensive driving technique, the Council is cooperating with state and city officials to give it public attention in August with the theme "Don't Rely on the Other Guy."

Defensive driving means more than just obeying traffic laws and avoiding mistakes in your own driving. It means also being able to avoid accident situations caused by others.

The Council says you are a defensive driver if you can answer "yes" to the following questions: Although you have the right of way at an intersection, another car is coming fast along the cross street. Do you slow down and stop if necessary?

The driver ahead holds out his hand. Do you stay behind until you are sure of what he intends to do?

You are driving along a residential street and see children playing on the sidewalk. Do you slow down and keep a sharp eye on them?

You've had a couple of highballs at a party but feel fit as a fiddle. Do you ask someone else to drive?

You are approaching the crest of a hill. Do you slow down, keep well to the right and alert for the approaching speed demon who is trying to pass a truck on the other side of the hill?

The night is wet and dark. Do you cut your speed so you can stop in the distance your headlights illuminate?

The trick of defensive driving is to concentrate not only on what is happening, but on what may happen ahead, the Council said.

THE WHISTLER

Then there was the rich old gentleman sitting in his wheelchair beside an open window as a sleek chick walked by, displayed a comely figure.

"Quick, Jenkins," called the old gentleman to his valet. "Bring me my teeth, I want to whistle."

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

THE STRAW HATTERS

Andover has no Summer theater, but a lot of Andover people are enjoying that fascinating summer pastime of seeing good plays during the warm months, just the same. It is only a short automobile ride from here to two or three spots where first rate companies perform nightly, and if you have attended any of those theaters during the past few weeks you have probably seen other Andover people there, too.

According to "Variety," the weekly devoted to the theater and other forms of entertainment, the summer now fast waning has been a good one for the summer theater. More Straw Hatters have been successful this year than for some time. Certainly those in this vicinity have done well, and patrons have been well entertained.

If you have not yet enjoyed a stage play this summer — in the summer theaters, that is — there is still time. But not a great deal. The final curtains fall late this month.

THE EDITOR'S STAKE

A free press is made possible by advertising — a thousand and one different advertisements of industries seeking to sell their wares or services to the public.

From such a field in which to seek business the press of the United States can maintain its financial independence — the smallest country weekly or the greatest metropolitan daily has an equal chance.

Such financial independence means editorial independence. American newspapers are not creatures of government as in dictator countries where they are controlled and subsidized. They are not afraid to criticize government, public officials or business.

There can be no free press or individual opportunity without private enterprise.

Communism and socialism kill free enterprise and personal liberty because under such political systems government owns industry, including newspapers, and the individual.

American editors are against communism and socialism, first, because such governmental philosophies destroy political freedom; second, because they destroy a free press.

Any successful move to socialize an industry in the United States, undermines by that much, personal liberty, the foundation of a free press, and the unrestricted opportunity of individuals to choose a line of work or an employer. Under socialism and communism you work for the state and like it, or else.

This is why individuals and newspapers wishing to retain their independence should oppose government ownership of business in our country, while they have a chance. Don't be lulled into a false sense of security by thinking it can't happen here.

PURE CARELESSNESS

Do you go out and find bits of paper on your lawn in the morning? Has somebody thoughtlessly tossed a cigar wrapper, or the wrapping from a candy bar, or some other "contribution" onto your sidewalk?

The chances are that if you live on a much-traveled way, this has happened at your house. And it may not always happen in the night. People are just as careless through the day as they are when it is dark.

Too many have the idea that the one thing to do with wrappings and other things they no longer need, or want, is to throw them away. They don't stop to think that somebody must pick up that rubbish. If there were more thoughtful people things would look neater and tidier.

MORE SPEED

When you send a telegram from Andover now it will travel faster than it ever traveled before! And not only will it travel faster, all relays will be eliminated. For instance, if you send a wire to California, or to Oregon, it no longer must go to Boston and be retyped. It goes directly to its destination.

All communities do not enjoy this service as yet. Lawrence will not have it until sometime in September. Andover was one of the first offices to put into this super-service class.

President Truman says the election next November may be decided by the small town vote. And he may be right. It might even be decided right here in Andover. Your vote might even do the trick. Be sure to vote!

A correspondent suggests that inflation really began in 1933. But the question we'd all like to have answered right now is when will it end?

Everybody seems to know more production would end inflation, but nobody seems to want to be the fellow who'll do the producing. — Worcester Telegram.

STEPHEN A. BOLAND

Stephen A. Boland, the first career man to be appointed Postmaster in Andover, attended the public schools of this town and graduated from Pynchard High school in 1912 where he was prominent in athletics and captained the 1911 football team.

In 1913 he graduated from the Lawrence Commercial school. His first appointment in the postal service was August, 1916, as a substitute carrier and he served in that position until he enlisted in the army in 1917, serving in France for fourteen months.

After being discharged, he returned to the Post Office department as a regular carrier until 1920 when he was transferred to a regular clerk, and held that appointment until 1941 when he was promoted to Assistant Postmaster, succeeding the late Frank S. McDonald. He was appointed to his present position April 25, 1945.

Mr. Boland is a member of St. Augustine's church. His affiliations include the Andover Council, 1078, Knights of Columbus, Andover post, American Legion, Forty and Eight and the Andover Catholic Club.

Born in Everett, Massachusetts, Mr. Boland has lived in Andover for the past fifty years and resides at 9 Orchard street with his wife, the former Marie J. Daley.

ARTHUR W. COLE

For the past 12 years, Arthur W. Cole has held the position of Welfare Agent for the town. President of the Andover Home for Aged and director of the Andover Guild, he is a member of the Andover Service Club, the Square and Compass Club and the South Church Men's Club. He was formerly associated with Smith and Dove Manufacturing company.

During World War I, he served as a member of the Andover unit of Battery F, 102nd Field Artillery, 26th Division and he is now a member of the Andover post, American Legion, member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and of St. Matthews lodge of Masons.

Born here in 1895, he attended our public schools and is a graduate of the Bentley school of Accounting and Finance. His wife, the former Marion Barnard, a son, Donald, who is an instructor at Phillips Academy, and a daughter, Constance, a teacher at the Pike school, comprise his family.

In his high school days, Mr. Cole who is a great sports enthusiast, managed the famous football team of 1911. His other main recreation is gardening and he may be found many an evening working in his garden at 16 High street.

What Our Readers Say—

Editor of The Townsman:

The Back-Yard Gardener wants a variety of Kentucky Wonder that will not grow too tall. That's easy: limit the height of the pole. Beans won't grow much above the tops of their poles. If you want an extra high pole to attract perching birds, you take the consequences. I have seen a variety of ordinary bean advertised to grow 25 feet high.

What I complain of in Kentucky Wonder is that it, like most pole beans, will drop its leaves in the middle of the season and so cease to bear pods. You can now get first-class pole string beans that will not do that; for instance, Decatur. However, since different seedsmen sell utterly different varieties under the name "Kentucky Wonder," possibly somebody may have a "Kentucky Wonder" that has not that fault.

Down the Years
with
The Townsman

50 Years Ago—Aug. 1898

The Andover Cricket club puts on a great show. It defeats Merrimack, 62 to 47, and halts the game to hear an address by Congressman William S. Knox and to have a flag raising.

Hardy & Cole are putting in a cellar and remodeling the West Center school preparatory to placing a new furnace there.

Mrs. J. K. Cole and daughter of Peabody are at the Frye Village home of Mrs. Jonathan Poore, where they will spend the remainder of August.

Bicycle Accident! Alvin Tough and a man named Morrison collide at the corner of Elm and Summer streets. Both are thrown off their mounts and Morrison receives a bad cut on his head. Both wheels are considerably damaged. The men were riding at a fast clip, we say, and neither saw the other until they met!

Mrs. Sage and daughter, Mrs. Copeland of Parson City, Kansas, are visiting Mrs. Sage's mother, Mrs. Aaron Clark of Cuba street.

Melvin Burnham, son of Supt. Burnham of the Almshouse, returns from West Beekmantown, N. Y., where he spent his vacation.

Announcement is made that the Free and Baptist Churches will unite with the South Church in a praise service for the peace.

25 Years Ago—Aug. 1923

Two horses attached to a dump cart crash into the home of Mrs. James Skea on Essex street, pushing down a wall. The Townsman reports that Mrs. Skea is greatly surprised.

Wedding: Lena Lundgren and Joseph T. Lovejoy. Rev. Norman Bartlett of the Baptist church officiates.

In an editorial we advocate a planning board for the town.

A correspondent, John H. Steward, writes to the editor: "After visiting other cities we have the strong impression that Andover is very deficient in the way of street signs. People have often been misled and gone several blocks out of their way to find their whereabouts, and we have noticed visitors to our town many times looking for locations. If you take a walk down town and notice you will find many streets with no signs to guide the traveler and visitor. Neat, reliable signs should be placed at the corner of all streets. It would add a lot of comfort and a lot of celerity of getting about our town and please strangers who come here so often to see the place."

10 Years Ago—Aug. 1938

The town may be asked, at the coming special town meeting, to appropriate a sum, to be expended in connection with state and county funds, in the widening of North Main street where the car tracks were formerly located.

No reply has been received from the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway regarding the removal of tracks on Main street, as suggested by the Board of Public Works.

A playground carnival is held at Shawshen. The committee: Mrs. Edward Reilly, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eastwood, Mrs. L. C. Conner, M. A. Burke, Mrs. Leslie Christison and Mrs. Arthur Steinert.

George Burrage's place on Bancroft road struck by lightning, but there is no damage.

Miss Esther Smith is having her 20-room mansion and her barn on Shawshen road torn down. Once one of Andover's show places, the mansion was built by the Smith family long prominent in the manufacturing industry here.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Haggerty of Andover street visit Mr. and Mrs. James Kyle in Waltham.

Miss Margaret Laurie of the Merrimack Insurance office vacationing in Vermont.

Alexander Hamilton's Birthplace

Alexander Hamilton, famous American statesman of the Revolutionary period, was not a native of America. He was born at Charles Town, Island of Nevis, in 1757.

REPORT from the State House

By SEN. PHILIP K. ALLEN

Last week we took up the Division of Appraisals and Review, Corporate Organization and Registration, and Corporations. Continuing in our study of the Department of Corporations and Taxation, we come next to the Division of Excise taxes.

This division, under a Director, handles the gas tax, alcoholic beverage taxes, and the State motor excise tax. The latter is differentiated from the motor vehicle tax which is collected by cities and town on cars principally garaged in those cities and towns. The Excise Tax Division collects the tax on cars which are principally garaged outside the Commonwealth, but which bear Massachusetts license plates and, of course, the tax on motor vehicles used in inter-state trucking. The amount collected under this excise is insignificant.

The gas tax imposed by the State of three cents on every gallon, however, brought to the State in the fiscal year of 1947-1948 some 23 millions of dollars. The alcoholic beverage tax brought in 18 millions. The basis of this last tax is now two dollars a barrel on beer, two dollars a gallon on spirituous liquor. Distilled wine is taxed on the basis of ten cents a gallon, while sparkling wine is taxed forty cents per wine gallon based on fifty percent by volume.

The question of the allocation of all of the taxes collected by this department will be discussed in a later column, but at this time it might be noted that the question of allocating the entire proceeds from the gasoline tax to the Highway Program requires a constitutional amendment and will be presumably settled by 1950 when the question will appear on the ballot. The question has already been passed on by this year's legislature.

Next week we will continue with this same department.

Do You Know
Massachusetts?

DO YOU KNOW THAT...

Massachusetts gained 310,000 in civilian population between April 1, 1940 and July 1, 1947, of which 219,000 were the excess of births over deaths and 150,000 were the result of net in-migration; 59,000 persons were in the armed forces, according to recently revised estimates by the U. S. Census Bureau. Of the estimated $192,000,000 of annual income derived in Massachusetts from tourist business, upwards of one-fourth comes from conventions. Massachusetts has more village greens and commons than any of the New England states. Chapter 435 enacted this year by the General Court authorizes a building inspector to approve the use of materials not in conformity with local building codes if they are certified by registered engineers for use. The chain mail mesh that is part of the costume worn by Ingrid Bergman as "Joan of Arc" was made in Plainville, Massachusetts. Of the $183,506,200 expenditures by health and welfare services in Greater Boston during 1946, 79% was provided by the State, Federal, or local governments, 12% was paid by recipients of service and 9% was raised by charitable contributions and other means, as revealed by the Greater Boston Community Survey. The Town of Stow has appointed a special committee to prepare a zoning by-law to protect and guide its future development. (Compiled by State Planning Board)

Whether Congress will accept indefinitely this expenditure without review of the policy is doubtful. But given the money, the planes, and the crews, can the Air Force solve the problem?

Increasing Difficulties

The twenty-mile-wide air lane is already congested; as the autumn weather worsens, flights and supplies may have to be cut down. That means that while food and medical supplies are being flown in adequately today, coal may prove to be the real bottleneck. Berlin imports practically all its coal; on coal will depend not only gas for cooking and heating, but industrial concerns, and inevitably the economic recovery of the Allied sector of the city. But as time passes, the strain on the air lift increases. The two Allied airfields in Berlin are in need of repair, supplies must be flown in to add a further burden to the overtaxed shuttle service.

The Russians are still prepared to starve out nearly 2,000,000 people to get their political objective, for they not only appreciate the difficulties faced by the Western Powers, but know also that hungry stomachs will be more concerned with getting food than with placing the blame where it rightly belongs. The Soviet is using hard facts, not sentiment. For not only pride is involved, although face-saving is a factor. The Russians didn't want the Allies in Berlin in the first place, for by staying on the West has interfered with Russia's propaganda of 1945—that Berlin was a Soviet prize—and has hindered Russian plans to communize the city.

Berlin—A Pawn

And it is not too fanciful to suggest that Russia's plans were laid in 1945, if not earlier. For on Allied occupation of Berlin is now quite clearly one pawn in the grim game of international politics. Other pawns are the Danube River and the Ruhr area. Recently so-called negotiations were opened to discuss the internationalizing of the Danube, although it is highly probable that Russia never intended that the discussions should proceed beyond the talking stage. That the Western Powers would be interested in the internationalization of the river can be understood from a glance at the map. It is a vital transportation system for many countries that could be economically strangled if their access to it is cut off or arbitrarily restricted. Russia at the mouth of the river, and clearly within the Soviet orbit, can restrict traffic along its course and largely control the economic life of the several nations of Eastern Europe. And Russia, using the bait of discussions on international control, has a bargaining point with the United States, wishful of weaning Eastern Europe away from Russian control. Whether we'd ever get anything out of an agreement, if the Russians so decided, is very doubtful. While Russia isn't technically in control of the Danube, its satellites are. And paper agreements don't offer much satisfaction against actual operational control.

Russian Objective—Germany

The real, immovable objective of Russia is a centralized Germany. And the squeeze on Berlin is the opening play for more Four Power Conferences on the whole German issue. Russia simply wants a say in control of the Ruhr, which is able to play so large a part in the reconstruction of Western Europe. The issue is greater than mere pride. If we get out of Berlin, we have no more to say about its future. If we can make a bargain with Russia, the price looks like Russian control of the whole of Germany. And that points to a serious blow to the Marshall Plan and recovery of Western Europe, and chances to get Eastern Europe away from communist control. The long range view is that the United States would be out of Europe. Was that what Russia had in mind in 1945? Was the agreement of the Allies to "share" Berlin with Russia actually playing into Russia's hands? Why Not Get Out?

The United States finds itself in a clever squeeze play. If it gets out of Berlin, it loses not only face but a tenuous strategic position. If it tries to buy off the move, it sells itself short. Then why do we hang on literally by our teeth? Perhaps one answer is the American version of Russia's hopes for an economic collapse. The Soviet knows that depression in the United States would preclude further aid to Europe. Perhaps we hang on because we know that all is not well with the economy of Eastern Europe. For while the Communist front in Europe may sound confident, a more acute ear might discern rumblings of discontent. The Communists may protest too much and too loudly. An examination of economic conditions in the Soviet bloc may reveal dangerous weaknesses. They are worth looking into.

AT THE LIBRARY

NEW BOOKS

The following new books have been added to the library and may be reserved:

THE SHIP AND THE FOREST

A departure from the Hornblower stories, this novel is a return to Africa, the setting of an earlier book, THE AFRICAN QUEEN. It is the story of a village, and of what happens when some neighboring Arabs pillage and enslave his village.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

Seventy-five farm and rural essays spanning the seasons from the first spring stirrings in February to winter ice-cutting in December. For this reader the brief essays are evocative of country living as it was and as in many respects it still is today. The very essay titles bring visual memories—Plank Bridges, Watering Troughs, Fence Mending, Village Depot, Old Carriages, Rowen Time, Old Cellar Holes and the others.

BLACKJACK

The story of a sleepy Oklahoma town and of what happens when it is caught in the turmoil of an oil boom.

STILLWELL PAPERS

Beloved of his men and the Chinese armies which he trained, Vinegar Joe knew the bitterness of being at least partially repudiated at home when he, perhaps better than any other, knew the complex problems of the CBI theatre. His papers, edited by Theodore White, make an almost continuous record of the three years following Pearl Harbor and reveal in no gentle terms Stillwell's estimates of the people and events of that period.

FIELD OF THE STRANGER

With the arrival of a nouveau-riche Dublin family, the Field of the Stranger, which had known its rebellions, its conquerors and its hangings, becomes a modern battle ground. The invasion of the Merton-Cliches and their social climber friends only aroused the villagers to rebellion and a new unity. Told with humor.

ICELAND: NEW WORLD OUTPOST

In another of her delightful travel books, Agnes Rothery has tried to dispel some of the popular misconceptions about a country which for centuries was off the path of sailing vessels and steamships and which, today, lies directly on the Great Circle Route—the shortest distance between Northern Europe and North America. This is a sympathetic account of a country, a republic since the 9th century, a country with a highly literate past, of great natural beauty and one which has caught the imagination of wonder seekers since the time of the Greeks.

Says Art Gallery Show Sparkled With Talent

Assembled from some of the best art schools in the country, the students studying at the Addison Art Gallery during the summer presented a show, which, according to Time Magazine of August 16, "was technically expert, sparkling with real talent," and, from all reports, a credit to Gallery Director Bartlett Hayes, Jr., who brought them there.

Pleased as he was with the show, Time goes on to say: Director Hayes thought it could have been improved on if only the schools were better. "The ideal training," he says, "would combine the kind of technical skill you learn at the Boston Museum School (how to paint what you see) with the more abstract approach (painting as a language of its own) that Black Mountain provides. And on top of that there should be courses having nothing to do with art, because to develop a fine artist you have to teach the whole man."

Whether or not they had received the best possible school training, it was a fair bet that some of the exhibiting students would be heard from, adding to the variety and perhaps heightening the quality of U. S. art.

Find Old Newspaper Printed on Muslin

SOUTH DAKOTA—Add this to your list of new uses for old newspapers. Two copies of the Lennox Independent have turned up as pillow ticks. They were printed January 13 and 20, 1888, on muslin instead of newsprint.

The Independents were discovered by a reader when she removed the top from a chair pillow which had belonged to her parents. She brought them to the newspaper office. None of the feathers had worked through the muslin.

Unable to get newsprint because of a severe blizzard which struck this area in 1888, the editor of the Independent at that time was forced to publish on cloth.

WEST NEWBURY THEATRE

Acclaimed as "daring" and "powerful drama" by the New York critics, called "a hit... go and see it" by Walter Winchell, the next play at the West Newbury Summer Theatre will be "Deep Are the Roots," starring Henry Scott, the star of the original Broadway production.

Opening Monday evening, August 23, "Deep Are the Roots" follows the current production of "Joy to the World" on the Town Hall stage. It is being produced here in accordance with the same policy of the West Newbury Summer Theatre to bring the people of the Merrimack Valley timely and vital Broadway plays they might otherwise be barred from seeing.

West Newbury is the first summer theatre in the country to play "Joy to the World," comedy-satire of the recent Hollywood investigations which created a sensation on Broadway this spring. And West Newbury is one of the few summer theatres to dare to produce "Deep Are the Roots."

"Deep Are the Roots" will run from Monday, August 23, through Saturday, August 28, at the West Newbury Summer Theatre, with the usual matinee on Wednesday. Tickets may be reserved by calling the box office—West Newbury 160.

Fall Styles Feature Slim and Full Lines

Fall fashions will be evenly divided between the slim and the full silhouette. Skirts will be about the same in length, but there will be some surprises in store, says Marian Corey. Writing in McCall's for August about what to expect in clothes for fall, she tells about the oversize collar, the hat-wing sleeve and the dressy shirtrock:

"Fall silhouettes: Fall clothes are evenly divided between the slim and the full, with skirts about the same as far as length is concerned. Suits and coats stand at 12 inches from the sidewalks; day dresses at 12 and 13; cocktail frocks may go down to 10. Evening dresses are at 6 or 8 inches from the floor for the informal types, and floor length for the grand gala gowns.

"Fall suits: Many have straight skirts and longish jackets. The skirts are plain but the jackets often go in for interesting details. However, there are really no set rules about suits; you will see all kinds.

"Fall coats: Even in coats this half-a-half division between the slim and the flared exists, with the widely flared princess coat and the slim wrapped cape coat leading the field.

"Fall casual dresses: The interesting thing about these is, they are not plain shirtfrocks. There is something soft and individual about each one—a different neck, a special sleeve, a striking pocket. Oddly enough, the really plain shirtrock has moved over into the dressy class, and is made of exotic fabrics like lame and satin.

"Fall dressy dresses: The slim and sophisticated ones are a surprise. Though slim, the skirt always has something about it to get it lots of attention.

"New fall sleeve: It is the 'cut-in-one' or bat-wing sleeve, so improved in cut and fit that it seems like an entirely new fashion.

"Fall college clothes — As usual the college wardrobe is a matter of separate jackets, skirts, sweaters and blouses; of tweed suits; of slacks and pedal pushers and blue jeans; of checks and plaids and wool jersey; of smooth date dresses, and don't overlook that oversize collar; of bang-up formals and short dance dresses; of best coats and of short casual coats; of a rain coat and, if possible, a fur coat.

"Related tweeds, or tweeds designed to go together, are used for a smart country-and-car suit, long of jacket, slim of skirt. The breast pockets are fakes, the hip pockets open at the side. There is an up-curved neck, and sleeves in one piece with the yoke. Another suit, which is suggested for broadcloth, has something new in jackets. It is long and above all has the tiered side peplums. This is the little-waist-hip-and-slim-skirt silhouette in a dressy suit for young figures.

BUSINESS PERSONALITIES

AND SERVICES You Should Know AND PATRONIZE

European Background In Profession An Asset

Mr. Loris Di Stefani, painter and decorator, came here from France in 1933. He has had remarkable training in his profession. He has studied under Demetrios, and in color mixing, color harmony and Paris, studied for years perfecting the kind of painting and decorating that would satisfy a perfectionist.

In Europe, artists in every line as you can see when you admire of work create for lasting beauty, the fine architecture, murals and paintings which have lasted for centuries. There is no great gap between the artist and the man with a trade in Europe.

To be a top ranking painter and decorator, one had first of all, to have the artist's eye for color and all its variations—to be capable of complimenting with color and fine workmanship, the personality of the client.

Mr. Di Stefani has beautified many of Andover's liveliest homes, and does work for the Andover National Bank and the Memorial Hall Library. Among the many public buildings where you may see his work, are the Administration Building and the Smart and Flagg Insurance Building in Shawshoeen, The Unitarian Church in North Andover, Holy Rosary in Lawrence and Stoneham and North Andover Schools.

If you want your home to increase in liveliness, call 1438-W and make an appointment with Mr. Di Stefani.

BUSINESS MAN IS ALSO CIVIC MINDED

Mr. Weston F. Eastman, a resident of Williams street, Andover, has been in the insurance and real estate business in the Bay State Bldg., Lawrence, since January, 1937. He is a graduate of Phillips Academy, and was formerly assistant treasurer of the Merchants Trust Co., and liquidating agent in the Merchants Trust Co. from 1933 until 1937.

He is a past president of the Lawrence Rotary Club, affiliated with the Lawrence Boy's Club for over 40 years. He was one of the charter members of the Lawrence Housing Authority at the time when the Essex Street Housing project was built. He is a member of the Boston Real Estate Board and Junior Vice-President of the Greater Lawrence Board of Realtors.

The Elite can offer you any type of permanent—machine, machineless or a cold wave.

Hair tinting and dying is an art, and here you may have new highlights added to dull locks by an expert and harmless tinting job. Hair dying is also a specialty at the Elite Beauty Salon, and must be done by an expert, to look natural and to keep the hair in good condition.

This is also a good place to get your weekly manicure. Have you tried an Elite facial? There is nothing like a facial to pep you up and give you that fresh, invigorated look we all yearn for.

If you have white hair, and like it, bring out its beauty with an Elite permanent—you can be sure there will be no yellow streaks.

The Elite Beauty Salon is also noted for hair styling. If you want one of the new short haircuts or any of the above treatments, go in

Peter Butler Joins Professional Group

PETER BUTLER

Peter Butler of Elm street has been signed as a member of the professional acting company at the West Newbury Summer theatre and will go to New York in the fall to continue a stage career.

He worked as an apprentice this summer and last with the Town Hall Players, painting scenery, getting props, having occasional walk on and bit parts, and gaining general theatrical experience.

He showed such promise as the curate in "Candida" that Director David Lifson cast him in a major role in the recent production "Arsenic and Old Lace," and again in this week's show. His performance won enthusiastic notices and won him his first Equity contract when he was signed by Producer Carl Friedan as a member of the company.

The son of Byron F. Butler, associate editor of The Townsman and a news editor of the Boston Globe, and Mrs. Butler, Peter went to school in Andover, high school in Lawrence and college in Boston. During the past war he served as infantryman in the ETO.

Interested in the theatre from his childhood, he worked with Andover groups and the Lawrence Tributary Theatre, as well as on radio station WLAW, prior to joining the West Newbury group when it was formed.

TERMINAL LEAVE APPLICATIONS DUE BEFORE SEPT. 1st

A warning was issued to all New England Army veterans today by Lt. Colonel O. R. Bowyer, United States Army Finance Officer at the Boston Army Base, that applications for terminal leave pay will not be accepted after September 1.

"Although veterans have had nearly two years in which to submit their applications," said Colonel Bowyer, "I feel reasonably certain that some Army veterans separated in New England will submit 'late' applications to this office for terminal leave pay which otherwise is properly payable."

Adding that some applications, submitted after the September 1st deadline, perhaps will be accompanied by tearful pleas or explanations as to why the claim is late, Colonel Bowyer said: "It will be unpleasant for me to have to turn them down. Certainly it will be a disappointment for the veterans who are refused payment. But the postmark deadline of September 1, 1948 is fixed and absolute. I cannot change or disregard the law."

A TAXPAYER'S LIBRARY

A very valuable book list, "A Taxpayer's Library," recently received, compiled by the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Association lists books and pamphlets helpful in studying city and town government in Massachusetts.

According to the preface the bibliography has been prepared to provide a bird's-eye view of the extent and variety of material which is available for Massachusetts citizens who are interested in improving their city or town government or who are studying specific local problems.

A few of the books and pamphlets listed may be found in the Memorial Hall Library. If there is sufficient demand, a special shelf can be set aside and more material added to the library's collection. However, a highly specialized library covering local and state government is maintained at the Federation and this material may be obtained on inter-library loan.

Listed below are a few of the library's holdings:

Urges Extra Caution In Labor Day Traffic

Says Rudolph F. King, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, "during the 1947 Labor Day weekend ten people were killed by automobiles right here in Massachusetts. In other words Labor Day weekend represents one of the most hazardous hurdles in our whole year's race for highway safety.

"The Grim Reaper will be on hand this year—count on it! My inspectors with all departments of police will be on the job to oppose him—count on that, too! But how about you? All the best efforts of all the authorities will not be enough unless you personally are enlisted in this cause.

"As Registrar of Motor Vehicles I am appealing well ahead of the crisis to every motorist, bike-rider and pedestrian to play his important part. As motorists we must be unusually patient with the holiday congestion, contented to move in orderly lines at those conservative speeds which permit the heaviest flow of traffic. As bike-riders we should try to avoid those thoroughfares where the traffic is burdensome, and ride as always on the extreme right and in single file. As pedestrians let us be restrained by reason; cross streets at the corners only, and at the right time.

"Let us not pass the buck to the motorist! In your own behalf I ask you earnestly for your help. Will you please let me count on you? Remember our slogan: 'Walk and Drive Carefully, The Life You Save May Be Your Own'."

SEES EDUCATION NECESSARY STEP TO WORLD PEACE

"... since wars begin in the minds of men, it is in the minds of men that the defenses of peace must be constructed..."

—The Constitution of Unesco.

Few people would disagree with that statement from the charter of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (Unesco). But there are millions of men in this world who cannot even read that statement or any other.

Starting from the fact that the world has millions of illiterates, it's plain that to build the defenses of peace the world has a major educational problem on its hands. Add to the problem of illiteracy the fact that millions of children, who would normally receive decent educations, have been wrenched from their classrooms by the war, and the problem assumes ever bigger proportions. Furthermore, even under normal and peaceful conditions, educators have discovered that their ways of exchanging knowledge and ideas with each other are far from perfect and that much hard labor is needed before the spread of learning becomes easy and efficient.

One place in which the world is working together to lick educational problems is the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. In the two years of its life, Unesco can report that its international projects are already under way.

One type of project—fundamental education—is used to wage the war against illiteracy. It fits into the larger fight to raise worldwide educational standards. Unesco pilot projects in fundamental education to teach people to read and to fit themselves for modern life are getting underway in Haiti and China. Another part of the same effort to raise standards is the reconstruction of war-damaged educational systems. Unesco enlisted 52 international voluntary groups to aid in this project. Some of the results: more than $150,000,000 raised in two years by groups in the United States; 2,000 tons of educational equipment from Canada; 38,000 books from the French government; and hundreds of other similar gifts.

Unesco's work also extends to encouraging the free flow of ideas across national borders. In this field, Unesco has arranged for and distributed hundreds of scholarships so that students may study outside of their own countries. It has been working toward international book exchanges, co-operation between libraries and museums and similar joint ventures. It has set up field offices for scientific cooperation.

Seminars and studies are encouraging education for a world society. In this field, too, the United Nations itself has called on its member governments to encourage teaching about U.N. in national schools and reports show that many countries have set up such programs. U.N. also works directly with educators to furnish them information about its work.

The task of constructing the defenses of peace in the minds of

Aid In Preparations For Topsfield Fair

TOPSFIELD—The 124th annual Topsfield Fair, the nation's oldest agricultural exposition, to be held here Aug. 29-Sept. 4, Sunday through Saturday, will be the most attractive ever and aiding in the preparations are several residents of Andover and North Andover.

Roger Lewis of Andover and George R. Barker of North Andover are trustees, and committee members are as follows: cattle, Sidney P. White and Earl Foster of North Andover; flower show, Mrs. Charles Arnold and Mrs. John Osgood of North Andover; fruit, George R. Barker; poultry, Ralph Stevens and Robert L. Teel of North Andover; vegetables, Henry Smolak of North Andover; apiarian, Clarence P. May.

Consistent with tradition, the horse will be king of the grandstand shows. Every night on the flood-lighted half-mile track, leading trotters and pacers from New England, New York and Canada will vie for purses totaling $18,000. The introduction of night harness racing last year proved so successful that officials of the sponsoring Essex County Agricultural society are predicting a mutual "handle" for the week in excess of $300,000.

WINDHAM PLAYHOUSE

For the week starting Wednesday, August 18th through Sunday, August 22nd, the Windham Playhouse will present its annual old-fashioned American melodrama. "Maria Marten or Murder in The Old Red Barn" is the choice this year, and it is probably one of the most popular melodramas still produced. In addition to the play there will be vaudeville numbers by such famous performers as "The Back Bay Dandies," "The Great Ostram," "The Tonsorial Harmony Boys," "Mlle. Violette Valois Vedura," "Professor Offki," "Mlle. Crust—The Toast of Paris," and many other old time favorites.

William Corder, the villain, gets his just deserts in the end and the virtue of Maria Marten is avenged. You can hiss the villain, cheer the heroine, and a good time is had by all.

The melodrama at the Windham Playhouse is one of its most popular attractions. men is far from finished, educators point out. But the job is underway and the results may someday show up in a world whose attitudes are less war-like than ever before and more inclined to fostering peace and prosperity.

A special attraction will be held at Pomp's pond Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Alex Huston, waterfront director of Boston, and a representative of the Red Cross, will put on a demonstration which will include his famous stunt known as "A Trip Around the World."

Mr. Huston is a famous swimmer and among other things is noted for having set up the system for teaching the blind and the deaf to swim.

His demonstration, which he has put on in many other places, is one of great interest and should prove attractive to all interested in swimming and water safety.

Hussey's pond in Shawheen will remain open under supervision until next Wednesday.

Male Choir Group Enjoys Clam Bake

Several members of the Andover Male Choir enjoyed a harbor sail on Casco Bay and a clam bake recently.

The event was staged under the direction of the Portland Men's Singing Club for the members and their guests of the New England Federation of Men's Glee Clubs.

The clam bake was served on an island in the bay. During the afternoon a program of sports was enjoyed.

Among those attending from Andover were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Everett Collins, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Christie, Alexander Campbell, Merrill Berry, John Patti and Raymond Collins.

Police are also having curbs painted red where no parking will be allowed. This is near street corners, hydrants and driveways. Motorists are advised that no parking will be allowed adjacent to any curb painted red. Such offenders will get tickets, Chief Dane announces.

With the installation of the new meter heads in another week or 10 days, Chief Dane will put the meters into operation, but will allow a period of several days to enable autoists to become accustomed to them.

Double parking will be eliminated along with the head-on parking and all new regulations will be strictly enforced.
